Lone Tree Technology Inc Announces Controllo and Posera

Centennial, Colorado and Montreal, Quebec Feb 07, 2007 Lone Tree Technology has recently announced that the company has developed an integration between its Controllo application and the Maitre'D POS system. The joint solution allows restaurant staff to control their audio, video or even lighting systems directly from the POS application by integrating buttons on the POS screen to manipulate various audio system components or lighting.

POS Systems allow restaurateurs to efficiently manage patron services, kitchen operations, labor, and inventory, therefore the integration between Controllo and Maitre'D extends the functionality and value of the POS system. Mr. Gary Bartel, Vice-President at Lone Tree, states: "By loading Controllo onto the POS, POS users can have control of all the TV's, satellites, audio, and lights within a facility. The integration allows restaurateurs to further leverage the investment in their POS System." Key benefits of utilizing POS to control Audio Video Systems include security since POS Systems typically employ secure logins as well as placement because POS terminals are strategically placed on the floor for easy access.
